Bio

Mike Abrashoff is at the center of one of the most remarkable modern-day stories of organizational transformation. Mike took command of the worst-performing navy ship and crew in the Pacific Fleet, plagued with low morale, high turnover, and abysmal performance evaluations, and – within just one year – made it the best in the fleet using the same crew. The lesson was clear – leadership matters and culture is everything. In his riveting talks, Mike shows how business leaders can achieve the same results and success with their own “crews.” [morelink]
