HAMILTON

With nicknames like Steeltown, Lunch Bucket City, and Hammertown, you would expect a city to have a colourful history and rich diversity . And that's exactly what you find in Hamilton Ontario, Canada's eighth largest city. This diversity enabled us to generate lots of team building ideas. Founded in 1816 and named after settler George Hamilton, the city enjoys a combination desired by most major centres: a wealth of preserved heritage and a thriving modern culture. Boasting impressively preserved architecture, eclectic independent shops, and famous city sons & daughters such as Martin Short, Karen Kain, and Roberta Lynn Bondar, Hamilton is a city worth taking the time to explore.

Our exciting new adventure route offers a novel option for those looking for team building in Hamilton Ontario. Your Hamilton team building event will take place in the historic downtown core, and include visits to the area's most prominent and interesting sites. But teams won't simply be exploring such iconic sites as the Art Gallery of Hamilton, Copps Coliseum, The Canadian Football of Fame, and The Square, they will be sharing their diverse knowledge and skills to solve an array of entertaining puzzles. During your company's Conundrum Adventure, you might need to travel back to 1923 and search through a crowd, scour the Farmers Market to find three unusual ingredients, or strike deal for some Ti-Cats tickets with an "independent broker".

From a planning perspective, each adventure is designed around your needs to ensure a convenient and easy event organizing experience. Starting and finishing points for your Hamilton team building adventure are flexible, based on the location of your company's office, team building meeting, and/or desired finishing spot.

With our new Steeltown adventure team building in Hamilton Ontario has just become a whole lot more fun!
